A: It looks like you are trying to split on the space that follows the "forbidden characters" of the pdf. Based on how your text looks like, I think if you replace your current split method with a regex to split, you should be able to get what you need. Here is a way to get your first line with: `string[] lines = Regex.Split("Your text here", @"(? to wrap warm. I'd been wrapped several times before in my life, but never with this much contrast and visual impact. It's a beautiful, brilliant photograph. 9. I find myself pointing to my reflection in my french 75, and I like the way it balances the lovely detail of the glass, the cool sepia/white of the enamel, the deep purple of my clothing, and the clean edge of the photograph. 10. And I leave you with a little radicchio, and a couple of slices of the very wonderful tomato and basil salad I had for lunch this afternoon. Notice: 1cdb36666d`

Information The federal government today dropped its plans to introduce a My Health Record scheme which was meant to provide patients with more online visibility and oversight of their health records. Health Minister Jonathan Coleman has decided to shelve the mooted Medical Records Bill that is expected to be introduced into parliament. He has decided not to proceed with the proposed new laws. "I have decided that I will not support this legislation in the current session of parliament."
"It is clearly a significant change and there are many important issues to consider," Coleman said.
"However, based on the recommendations of the expert advisory group on the proposal, I have decided that I should not proceed." "As I've said previously, the need for a My Health Record continues to be identified and supports the role of the tools currently available and how they may be used in the
